In The Chair: Geiss

The Senate agreed to the title of the bill.

Senators Santana, Anthony and Lindsey asked and were granted unanimous consent to make statements and moved that the statements be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Santana's statement is as follows:

Today we are taking swift action to ensure families across Michigan do not go without nutrition this November. I've had several conversations this week with all my food banks who are on the ground supporting the needs of the communities throughout the state of Michigan, and while politicians in D.C. are not making ideal decisions, we in this chamber—the leaders in the Senate—are making sure SNAP benefits are funded, that our food banks are funded to help support those efforts, and also making sure families do not go without.

Just the other day, I was down in the city of Detroit at a KFC and an individual stopped me and said, Can I have $20 to get food because I don't have any resources? This issue is not just an issue that is impacting today but it's systemically impacting Americans across this country. It not only impacts that individuals who is receiving SNAP benefits, but those federal employees who are also going without a paycheck at this moment in time.

I am grateful to the leaders in this body—in this Senate Chamber—who are now deciding that we will not let our people here in Michigan go without the needs that every family needs and deserves. I want to say thank you to everybody who worked on this effort in making sure the people of Michigan matter first and they matter as a priority of our state.

Senator Anthony's statement is as follows:

Yesterday in this chamber, we had a lively debate over the federal government's decision to pause SNAP benefits, an essential food program for tens of millions of Americans. That includes half-a-million kids here in the state of Michigan, and 40,000 right here in my district. Yet, day after day, D.C. Republicans have continued to use people as political pawns as we barrel through one of the longest federal shutdowns in our nation's history.

Make no mistake: these cuts are a direct attack on our people, an attempt to take away benefits like food and health care from people who need it most, while padding the pockets of the wealthiest among us. Sunday is November 1—rent is going to be due; some of us actually turned on the heat begrudgingly; our utility bills are going to be a little higher. Before you know it, we will be gathering around the Thanksgiving table, but for too many people this year, that table will be sparse or even empty. Yesterday we debated; today we have an opportunity to take action. We on the Senate Democratic side are choosing to do something.

The supplemental that you have before you will deposit $50 million in a new emergency assistance fund so Michigan's most vulnerable households can keep putting food on the table even if federal SNAP funding expires or is no longer available. This fund is a stopgap measure, a lifeline for families facing uncertainty. In addition to that $50 million, we're also pouring $20 million toward food banks and pantries and other programs to help fill the gaps.

Senate Bill No. 182 helps to meet the needs of this moment, but we have to be honest with ourselves. This is not enough because we have no idea what's coming tomorrow. Every single day that the Trump administration seeks to exist, it launches a new attack on working families, and our state does not have the financial means or the ability to fix every single problem coming out of D.C. What we're doing today is not a permanent fix. Our resources are limited, but we have a responsibility to provide for the people of this state. The supplemental that is before you has been co-created by every single member of the Senate Democratic caucus. They've looked the Majority Leader and myself in the eye and have said two things: Do something. We have to be quick, we have to be strong, and so I urge every member of the chamber—on the Senate Democratic side as well as my Republican colleagues—to join me in voting "yes." We will keep fighting for as long as we can with the resources we have, and I urge the Whitmer administration and the House of Representatives to join us in doing something.

Senator Lindsey's statement is as follows:

The bill in front of us is a bill to spend $70 million—taxpayer dollars—that was revealed about 10 minutes ago. The language in it is very vague. It doesn't do a good job. It is directed generally towards helping with food insecurity, but it's very vague.

I tend to be—I'd like to try to be one of the most fiscally responsible members of this chamber, yet today, I rise to say that I will be supporting this bill. The reason is because I am calling the bluff of the Democrats. They know for a fact that under the rules and laws of the state of Michigan that this solution cannot, literally under our laws, cannot be done in time to help the people of Michigan. But if the point they want to send is that we, as a chamber, we as a Legislature, should get together and work on behalf of the people—tackling things like crises around food—I want them to know that if they want a partner in a serious effort to do that, come talk; I'll be open to it. A lot of Republicans will be open to it. I'll even vote "yes" for this supplemental to put some money behind sending a signal to help the people of Michigan.

But the people need to understand, this is all political theater. The bill in front of us can’t be passed in time to help—the Senate doesn’t even plan to meet or take up any legislation next week, neither does the House. It has to layover over there. This is political theater. Again, I will say to my Democratic colleagues, if you’re serious about an effort—and there’s still time this week—come sit down and talk about a solution that could actually help the people of Michigan. I’m open to that conversation. I’ll vote “yes” for your theater bill because I do legitimately care about the people of Michigan, but a solution has to be one that’s worked out with details, refined, and actually gets the assistance where it needs to go.
